Why are we here

Archiving isn't just a compliance requirement. An interactive archive (IA) can help your processes work better.

Existing email archives are broken or just 'Vaults' – how do we fix that?

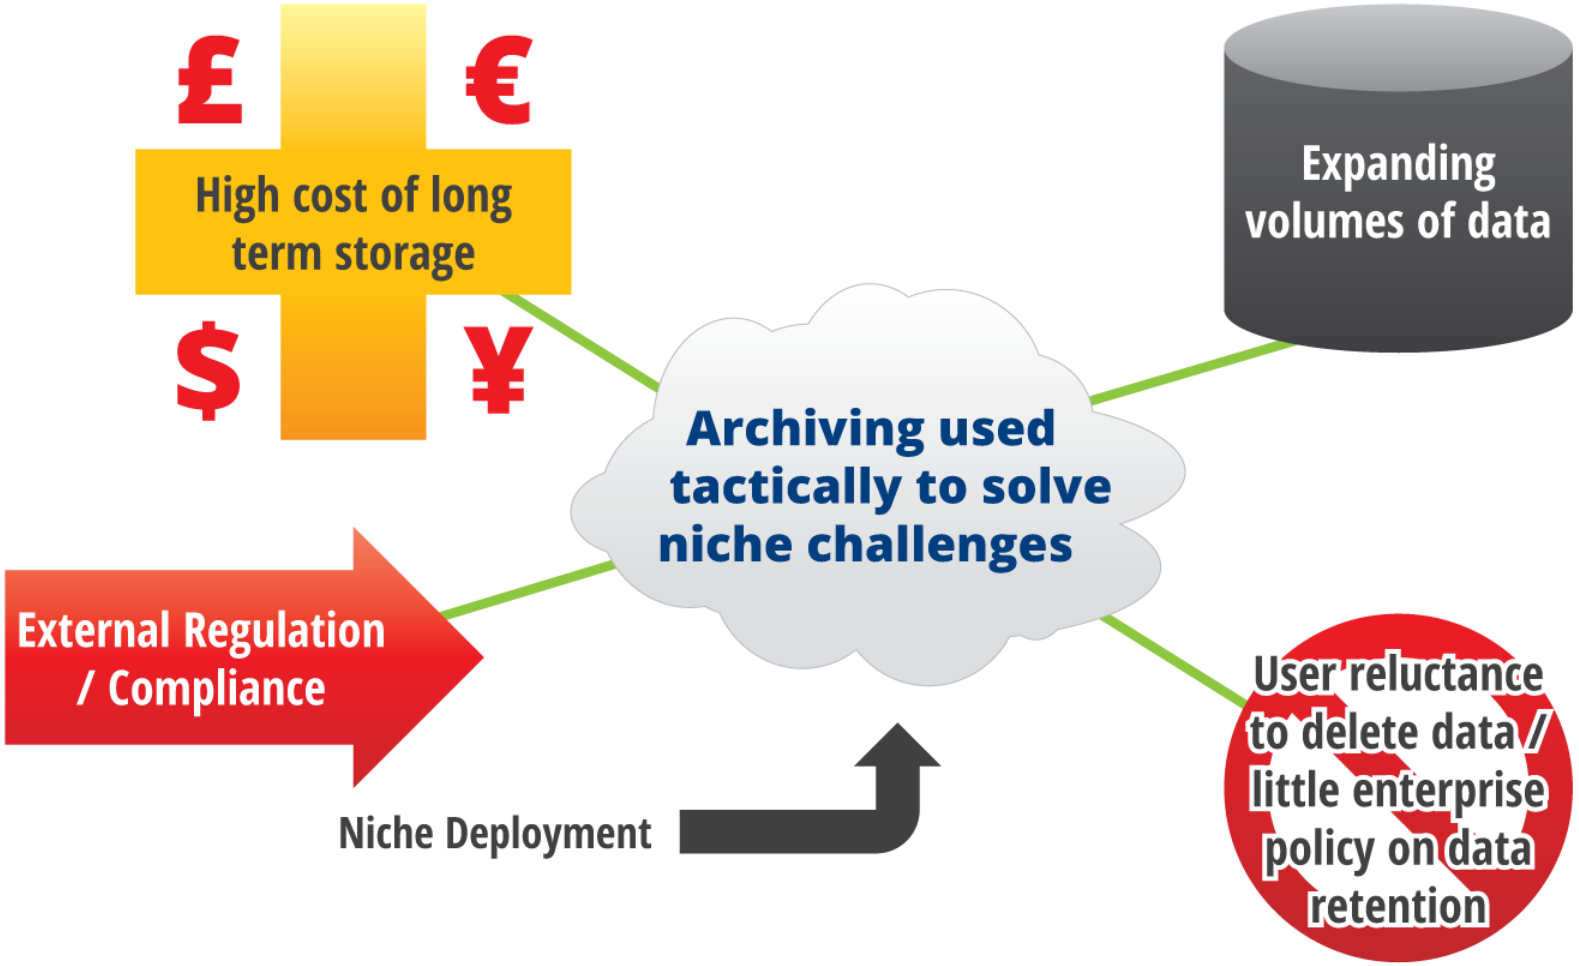
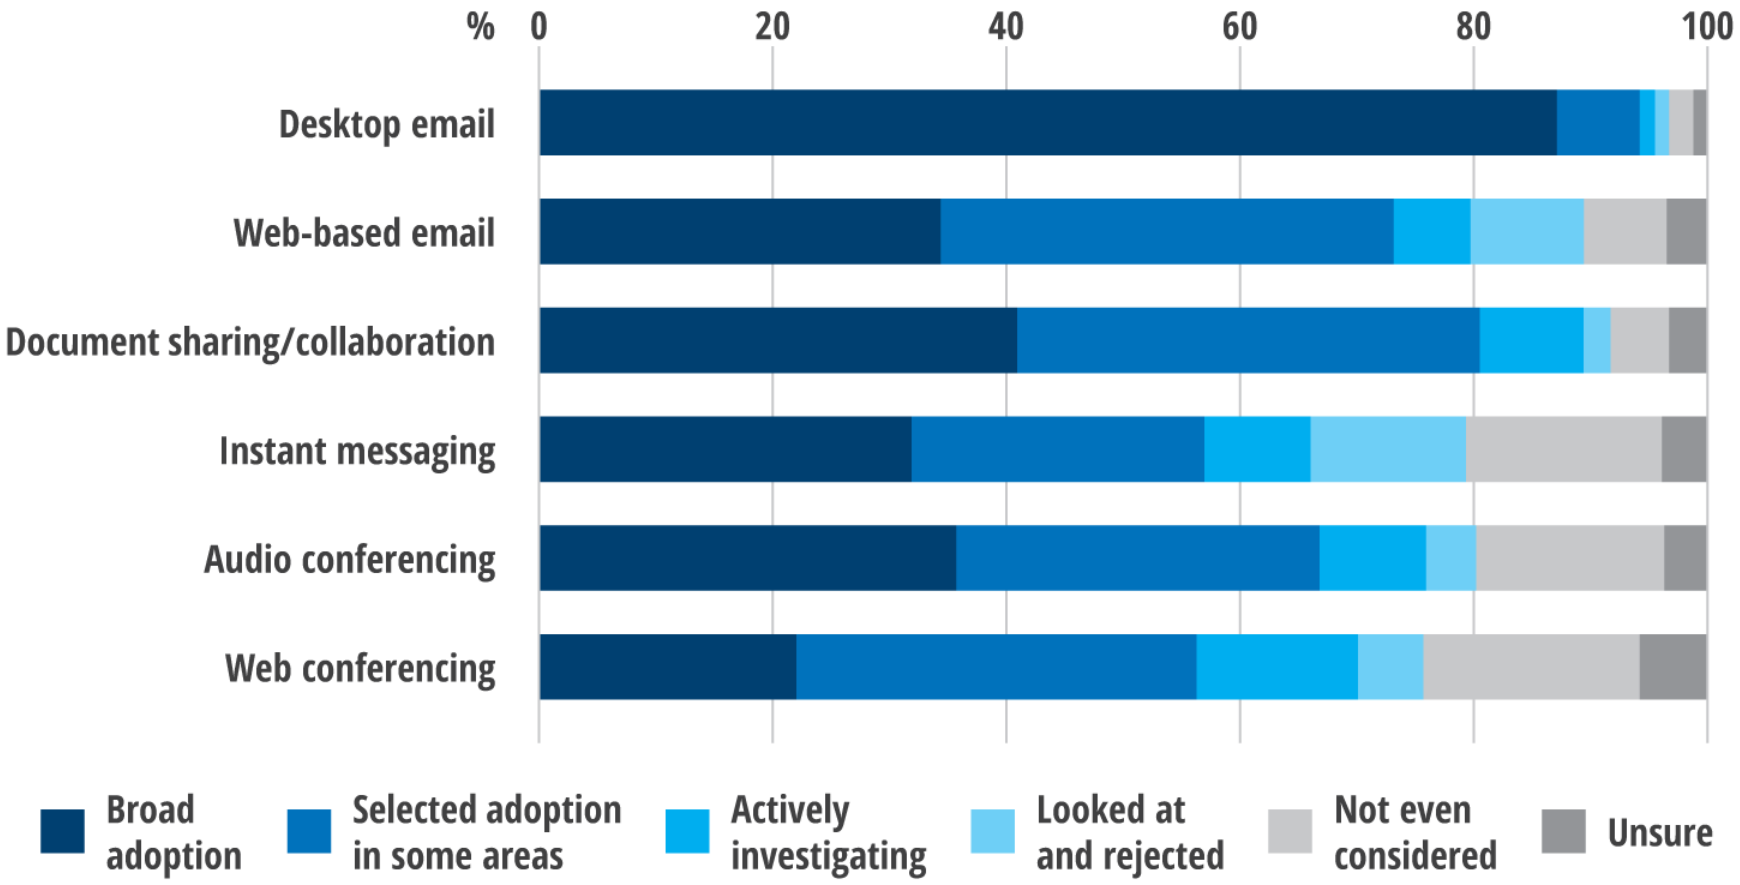
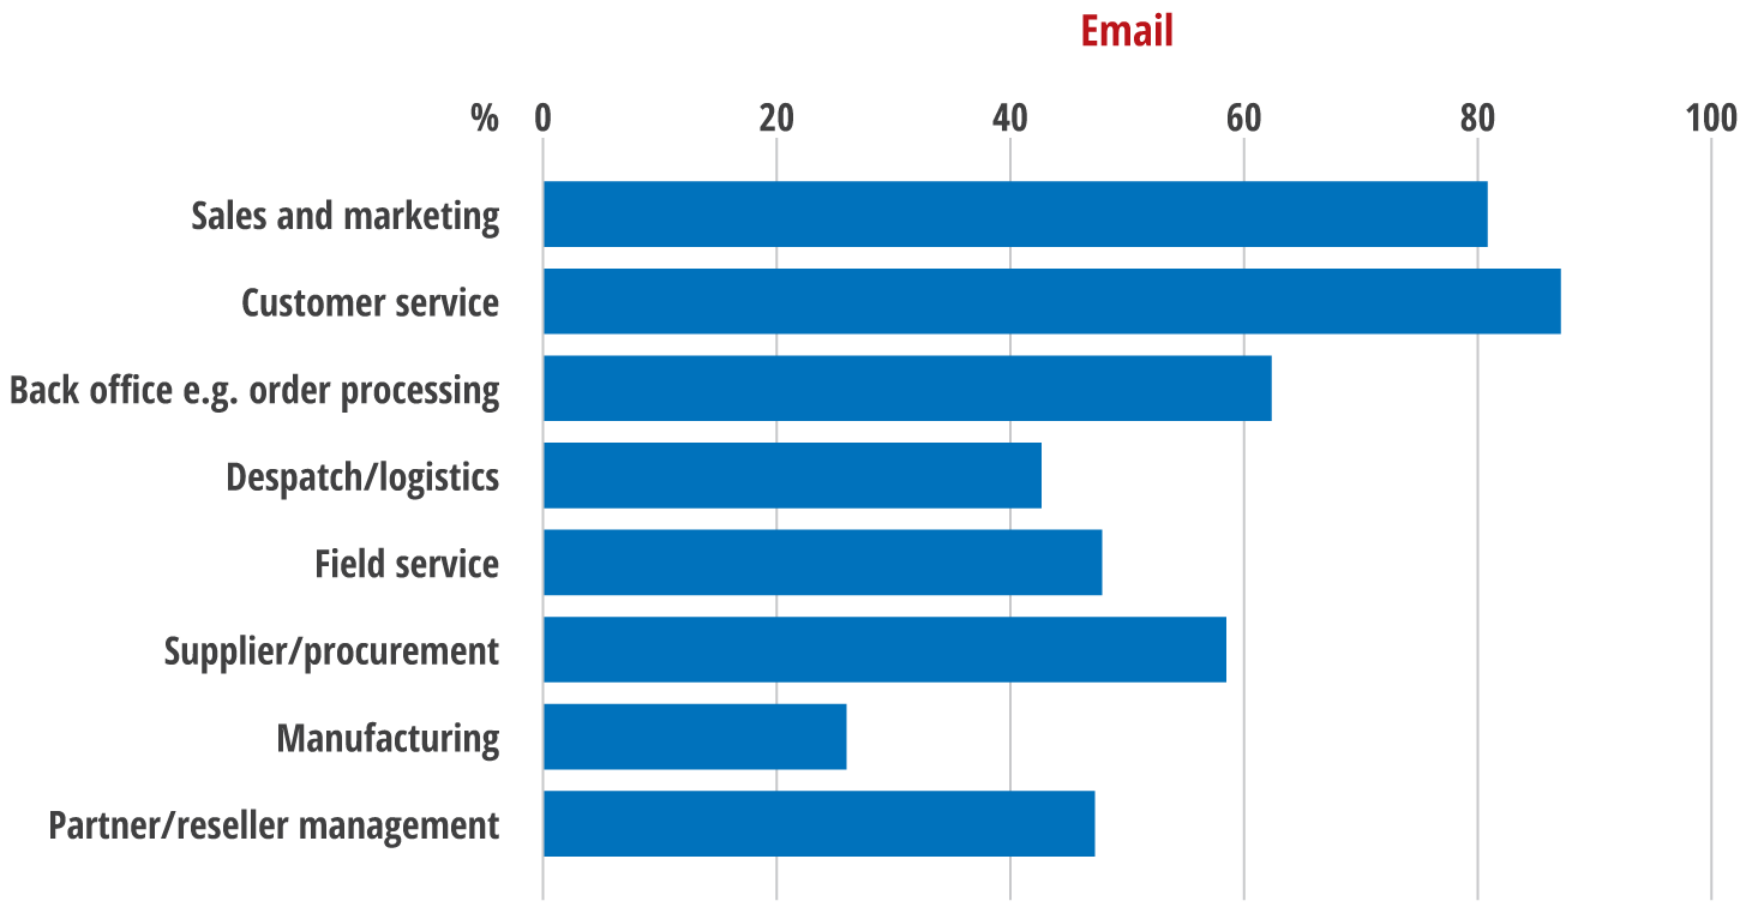
The state of archiving today



To what extent are office productivity and other applications currently being used?



Would you regard the following as being critical to any of the following business functions?



Considered overall, to what degree does your organisation exploit its information assets for analysis and decision making purposes?
